About Kota Doria

Indian hand woven fabric is revered all over the world for its unique, unparalleled, rich heritage and the spectacular craft of our artisans.

Kota Doria fabric has square weave patterns (called Khat) produced by a combination of cotton and silk, making it one of the finest open weave fabrics in India. The cotton provides stiffness and strength and the silk adds lustre and softness making the fabric an ideal choice for summers. The intricately woven zari (real silver/gold coated wires) designs lend a subtle yet magnificent touch. The weavers employed in the craft are suffering today and need our support.

Kota Heritage Society is committed to supporting the weavers with training workshops, securing customer orders and marketing
